High Blood Sugar Today Can Affect Your Health Tomorrow.

Diabetes is not just about high blood sugar levels. When blood sugar remains uncontrolled over time, it can gradually damage important organs and affect your quality of life.

Ignoring the warning signs today can lead to serious health complications tomorrow.

- Heart Health: Uncontrolled diabetes increases the risk of heart disease and stroke.
- Kidney Damage: Persistently high blood sugar can damage the kidneys over time.
- Vision Problems: Diabetes can damage the blood vessels in your eyes and affect your vision.

- Nerve Damage: High blood sugar can cause nerve damage, tingling, numbness, or pain, especially in the feet.
- Slow Wound Healing: Diabetes can make wounds and infections harder to manage.
